ERIN HILLS GOLF COURSE

A Course Created by Nature and Revealed by Architects.

Over 10,000 years ago, Erin Hills was formed by colliding glaciers that left dramatic ridges, contours and vistas.

The minimalist and sustainable approach to design and maintenance respects the course's place in Wisconsin's Kettle Moraine region. When architects Michael Hurdzan, Dana Fry and Ron Whitten set out to draft the course, they needed to move only a few shovels of dirt to reveal the rare landscape that can test the game's best in a major championship.

The Architects of Erin Hills

Dr. Michael Hurdzan – An internationally respected authority on golf course design, renovation, and the environment, has received golf’s highest non-player honors. Dr. Hurdzan has designed or co-designed courses on five continents, including numerous “Top 100” designs in the U.S. and Canada.

Dana Fry – This one-time junior and collegiate competitor developed a keen passion for golf course design in the early 1980s. His background as a golfer and his personalized, hands-on approach are integral to his renowned designs, which have earned him many accolades and honors.

Ron Whitten – Although his day job is Golf Digest’s Senior Editor for Architecture, Mr. Whitten has also co-designed five courses. In addition, he’s the author of five books on golf course design, including the first history of golf course architecture, “The Golf Course”(1981).

Course Recognition

Golf Digest ranked Erin Hills 9th among America’s Greatest Public Courses and 42nd among America’s 100 Greatest Courses overall.

“THE GOLF COURSE IS GREAT, IT REALLY IS. I’M A BIG, BIG FAN OF THIS PLACE.” – Rory McIlroy

ACCOMMODATIONS & AMENITIES

A Quiet and Intimate Destination Awaits Golf Enthusiasts.

Located 35 miles northwest of downtown Milwaukee and 110 miles from Chicago's O'Hare Airport, Erin Hills occupies a stunning swath of rolling land left by the collision of receding lobes of the Green Bay and Lake Michigan glaciers 10,000 years ago. That land in Wisconsin's Kettle Moraine region is now Erin Hills, a golf course whose fairways, vistas and mystical appearance clearly could not have been made by man.

To serve the golfers who tackle this minimalist, championship course, the cottages and the Lodge provide a variety of accommodations. The dining room, clubhouse porch, pub, terrace (with fire pits) and meeting rooms offer many opportunities for gathering before or after golf. Dining options are casual or elegant and feature a unique selection of food, wines and liquor. The practice facility includes bunkered greens for targets and an extensive short game area.

Amenities at Erin Hills

- 18-hole championship course
- Kettle Loop (a different look at five holes)
- Drumlin putting course, with lights
- Extensive practice facility, featuring Toptracer Range
- Four-bedroom cottages
- Lodge with individual rooms and suites
- Fine dining in the Clubhouse Dining Room and Porch
- The Irish Pub and Terrace
- The Sports Lounge
- Private meeting and dining rooms
- Professional caddies
- Crash the Caddie Barn

Accommodations

Each of the five cottages boasts a central great room complete with gas fireplace and a wet bar with views overlooking the course, practice facility and/or prairie. All of the bedrooms, both in the cottages and in the Lodge, are fitted with classic comforts—Egyptian cotton linens, down comforters and pillows. All have wireless Internet and flat screen TVs.

Dining

There are a variety of dining options at Erin Hills. The Clubhouse offers two venues for dining, outside on the porch with a view of the course, or inside under cathedral ceilings in front of a two-story stone fireplace. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are available. Dinner is classic steak house with a full complement of wines and cocktails.

At the Irish Pub, the food is traditional pub fare with a wide selection of beer, scotch, or wine. Enjoy the casual atmosphere around gas fire pits outside on the brick terrace, or inside in the Sports Lounge with space to play cards in front of a large-screen television.

Private meeting and dining space is also available for small groups.
